

Margaux Hall

Margaux Hall is a partner in the firm's nationally recognized health care practice, based in Washington, D.C. Margaux is a leading lawyer in drug pricing, market access and value-based arrangements. She brings to clients an understanding of the transformative legal and policy issues and market changes affecting pricing and access to drug and vaccine products, including in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Recognized by Chambers and other publications, Margaux provides sophisticated regulatory and strategic business counsel to clients – including pharmaceutical manufacturers, investors, and others – on matters involving coverage and reimbursement under Medicare Advantage-Part D, Medicaid, the Federal Supply Schedule, and other government programs; innovative contracting and payment arrangements under government and commercial contracts; and price reporting obligations under federal and state laws.

Margaux's deep knowledge of the pharmaceutical supply chain also is invaluable in major life sciences transactions. Investors and others turn to Margaux to assist them in assessing and evaluating their investments in pharmaceutical products, specialty and long-term care pharmacies, pharmacy benefit managers, distributors, group purchasing organizations, and other companies providing services to entities in the supply chain.
