

Vincent Mondillo, Jr.

Vincent Mondillo is a producer/director/writer who over the years has created a range of work, including television programs, documentaries, museum videos, and dramas. He's been a producer and editor on broadcast programs with Lou Reda Productions. In recent years he has collaborated with Richard Master and the Unfinished Business Foundation and produced documentaries on the health care system, pharma prices, and money in politics. The films have been utilized in grassroots organizing across the country.