

Mary Riordan

Mary Riordan is a Senior Counsel in the Office Inspector General (OIG) for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. She primarily handles cases brought under the federal False Claims Act involving alleged fraud against Medicare and Medicaid. Mary specializes in cases and matters involving pharmaceutical and device manufacturers. She has represented the OIG in the negotiation of numerous settlements and Corporate Integrity Agreements (CIAs) involving the drug and device industry. Mary also monitors several CIAs with pharmaceutical manufacturers and other entities. Mary is a co-author of the OIG's Compliance Program Guidance for Pharmaceutical Manufacturers. Prior to joining OIG, Mary worked as an attorney at Reed Smith in Washington, D.C.